

Ada Rovatti in Concert

N. C. (June 14, 2018)

Ada Rovatti is coming to New York City's Italian Cultural Institute June 25 for a free concert event!

Ada Rovatti [2] is an Italian jazz musician who continues to take the world by storm. Ada, who plays the saxophone, will be joined by Jill McCarron on piano, and Daryl Johns on double bass for a free concert at the Italian Cultural Institute [3] in New York City on June 25 at 6:30 pm.

A Global Musician

Ada is classically trained in piano and has been playing the saxophone since high school. She was the winner of a Berklee College of Music scholarship, and from there, her career continued to flourish. Ada has performed all over the world sharing her passion for music and has collaborated with countless celebrated musicians. In the United States, she has led various bands, The Ada Rovatti Jazz Quartet/Quintet and Elephunk.

The Italian Consulate is excited to showcase her talents on Monday for a night of music and fun.
